

Quail Creek Writers Mission Statement

Our mission is to provide a venue for writers at various stages in their writing involvement to share their experiences. The focus is to build a supportive group for emerging writers who desire to improve their writing skills, for published writers to share their work and knowledge and to assist writers who wish to self-publish their work through Kindle.

We achieve our goals by conducting writing improvement workshops, holding presentations by published writers, both members and non-members, providing assistance to self-publishing efforts, attending and participating in book and other related fairs, and such other presentations and projects that are deemed appropriate by the Club leadership and which are consistent with this mission statement and goals.
